The Gospel according to Mark reports only one word of Jesus from the Cross: "Why have you forsaken me?" (15:34) For now there is no answer to this "Why." No relief is possible at this point. Therefore the life of the world's Savior ends with a "great cry" in which he gives not only human but also divine-human expression to the injustice world history has done to God, to this incomprehensible outrage against him. It is precisely this cry at the point of death that brings the centurion, the first convert, to faith.

What does the Catechism Teach?

"The Paschal mystery of Christ's cross and Resurrection stands at the center of the Good News that the apostles, and the Church following them, are to proclaim to the world. God's saving plan was accomplished 'once for all' (Hebrews 9:26) by the redemptive death of his Son Jesus Christ. The Church remains faithful to the interpretation of 'all the Scriptures' that Jesus gave both before and after his Passover: 'Was it not necessary that the Christ should suffer these things and enter into his glory?'

(Luke 24:26-27,44-45) Jesus' sufferings took their historical, concrete form from the fact that he was 'rejected by the elders and the chief priests and the scribes,' who handed 'him to the Gentiles to be mocked and scourged and crucified.' (Mark 8:31) Faith can therefore try to examine the circumstances of Jesus' death, faithfully handed on by the Gospels and illuminated by other historical sources, the better to understand the meaning of the Redemption." - from the Catechism of the Catholic Church, #571,572,573
